Examiner's Amendment

4. The Examiner's Amendment to the record appears below. The changes are made to further clarify the term "search index related file attachments". The Applicant agreed to the Examiner's Amendment during a telephone interview conducted on 12/23/2004. The term, appearing in claims 1, 11 and 21, has been amended to "search index related to file attachments ". Accordingly, claim 1 is amended from,
"A method comprising: configuring search indices on a server, the search indices being associated with corresponding business components;
displaying the search indices to a user of a client, the client being connected to the server via a computer network and being configured to perform search using data records stored on the client;
providing the user of the client with a mechanism to individually select one or more search indices for download onto the client; and downloading the one or more selected search indices from the server onto the client, the one or more selected search indices to be used for searching on the client, wherein search index related information including index identifier and search engine identifier is stored in a first table and search index related file attachments are stored in a second table”, to claim 21 is amended from,

"A machine readable-medium comprising instructions which, when executed by a machine, cause the machine to perform operations including:

Reason for Allowable

5. The following is the Examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The prior art of record, U.S. Patent 6,334,124 (Techniques for Improving Index Searches in a Client-Server Environment), issued to Borchard et al., teaches method for facilitating index searching by a client through records of a data-store. This reference does not fairly teach search index related information, which includes index identifier, search engine identifier, and search index related file attachments. Bouchard reference does not anticipate Claims 1, 11 or 21, where the amended Claim 1 is listed in Item 5. Furthermore, combining with the second prior art of record, U.S. Patent 6,546,385 (Methods and Apparatus for Indexing and Searching Content in Hardcopy Documents), issued to Mao et al., the combined Mao-Bouchard reference does not fairly teach the following limitations in combination of independent Claims 1, 11 and 21:
configuring search indices on a server, the search indices being associated with corresponding business components;

displaying the search indices to a user of a client, the client being connected to the server via a computer network and being configured to perform search using data records stored on the client;

providing the user of the client with a mechanism to individually select one or more search indices for download onto the client; and

downloading the one or more selected search indices from the server onto the client, the one or more selected search indices to be used for searching on the client, wherein search index related information including index identifier and search engine identifier is stored in a first table and search index related to file attachments are stored in a second table.

6. Claims 2-3, 5-8 and 10, 12-13, 15-18 and 20, and 22-23, 25-28 and 30 are dependent on 1, 11 and 21, respectively and also distinct from the prior art for the same reason.

7. Any comments considered necessary by Applicants must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance".
